

THE NEED AND PROSPECTS OF A LOCAL STEAMER

Nearly a Million Dollars Said to Be Ready to Buy One--The Bookings for the Winter.

"It looks very much as if Honolulu subscribers will own a local steamer on the Honolulu-San Francisco route," said F. W. Macfarlane yesterday. "The people here owe it to themselves to own a steamship, or even two, for that matter, for then their own money would be invested in their own business."

"As it is now, this community is sucked dry of money by corporations which do not have their home offices in the islands. All the steamship companies are practically foreign corporations. We ***** pay marine insurance to companies outside and that is a big loss to us.

"If the local people own their own steamers they can insure the boat locally; they could insure their goods here. There are many ways by which money which is now sent out of the islands could be retained here.

"I believe that Mr. McCandless will be successful while on the Coast in determining whether or not a vessel can be procured. I have the most implicit faith in Mr. McCandless. He is enthusiastic over this project. In addition, he is a practical engineer in a general way, and this will aid him greatly. The funds for the steamer will all come from here, and as I understand it, the money will be ready on demand. Over $900,000, I am told, has already been subscribed.

"I believe it would be better to have two steamers. If we had but one, coming here say every three weeks, we would lose the advantage that could be obtained in the meantime. There is room for more boats.

"When I was in San Francisco I understood the steamers were booked four months ahead. That is not all through passenger traffic. Some of it is for Honolulu. There are not enough passenger vessels in service to carry everybody. When the new vessels of the Pacific Mail and the Oceanic Companies were built, it was expected they would be able to supply all demands. But traffic in the Pacific has grown beyond all anticipations, and it will continue to grow, and Honolulu is going to reap the benefit.

"Take San Francisco, for instance. That city is growing so rapidly that their street cars cannot begin to take care of the traffic. The Market street line cannot keep enough cars going to meet the demands. The city will shortly have a street traffic problem which it must solve, as have other cities east. The ferryboats, too, must be increased in number, for the bay cities are growing rapidly. There is no boom there. It is a steady growth. The overflow is sure to find its way down here, but we must have steamers for them to travel on, that's certain."

Manager Gray of the Alexander Young Hotel believes that there will be a large travel to Honolulu this winter. He is receiving letters by every mail from mainlanders stating that they have booked for this port.

"Much of the booking on the steamers," said Mr. Gray, "is of passengers intending to come here. But there can be no new bookings for a couple of months. Everything is about taken up."

N. S. Mullen, assistant manager of the Palace Hotel, who with his wife, has been visiting the islands for a few weeks, returned yesterday on the Kinau from the Volcano, and again registered at the Young Hotel. He is enthusiastic over the volcano trip. He has enjoyed his stay in the islands, and has visited about every point of tourist attraction. He has taken the island trip largely for the purpose of becoming acquainted with the attractions, so that he may give ready information to patrons of the Palace Hotel who may wish to take the Honolulu trip.

AGAINST CIVIC FEDS.

Senator Lane Would Expel Them From the Party.

The rules of the Republican party sadly need revision. That was plainly manifest at the regular meeting of the Territorial Central Committee last night. How to do it is, however, a bone of contention or, at least, it looks as though it would be.

The revision committee, Representative F. T. P. Waterhouse, Senator John C. Lane and John A. Hughes, presented two reports, Lane being in the minority. Both reports simplify the organization, but by different means. The majority report stops there, but the minority report recommends a change in the method of handling patronage and also provides that Republicans joining "any organization, association or club that opposes ANY regularly nominated candidate of the party" thereby ceases to be a regular Republican and can only be restored to grace by a two-thirds vote of the Territorial Central Committee.

Senator Lane openly declared these two additional features were to be directed at the Civic Federation. He declared the Civic Federation to "have a good object in view, to purify politics," but a man can not serve two masters. If one is an active party man, he must either serve the party or be a member of the Civic Federation. For instance, if a man enters the Civic Federation, he must serve the Civic Federation and can not be faithful to the Republican party and be faithful to the Civic Federation. He must be a traitor to either one or the other. The party must do something for its own protection. If a man can not be faithful to the party he must get out of it. When he reforms, by a two-thirds vote of the Territorial Central Committee he may be restored to membership in the Precinct Republican Club. I think that is nothing but right."

Other than to order copies of both reports sent to each of the thirty members of the Territorial Committee, nothing else was done at last night's meeting. The formal notices were given which will bring the amendments regularly before the next meeting.

An analysis of the present and past Republican organization in Hawaii will serve to clearly show the present complications of its machinery.

When the party was organized in 1900, the first Territorial convention meeting on Decoration Day and the day following adopted party rules and delegated to the Territorial Central Committee, consisting of as many members in each representative district as such district had members in the House, and its successors, power to amend these rules.

At that time there were no counties and the only elective officials were a delegate to Congress (voted for in every district), fifteen Senators (elected from four senatorial districts) and thirty Representatives (elected from six representative districts). It is plain, therefore, that the only party machinery required was a delegate or Territorial convention, senatorial conventions and representative conventions and a central or managing committee for each district in each class.

But with four senatorial and six representative districts, and our division also into islands, what is now Maui county was also one entire representative district and one entire senatorial district. This also applied to what is now Kauai county. But Oahu and Hawaii, while being separate senatorial districts, each included two representative districts. The rulemakers themselves provided for but two conventions, a delegate or Territorial and a representative, which they styled "district" convention, the latter of which nominated both the Senate and House tickets. On Oahu and Hawaii, however, a joint convention was provided for to nominate senatorial candidates, but no senatorial campaign committee was provided for. On Oahu, the Territorial committee acted as such, and on Hawaii the separate district conventions by tacit understanding each nominated half the senatorial ticket and their campaign committees acted independently.

When counties were organized a new set of elective officials was provided for and a new kind of convention and campaign committee was required. How to do it without creating unnecessary machinery was, and is at present, the hard question, for it will at once be

AN OFFER OF BLISS

Kansas Man Wants a Wife From Fair Honolulu.

Any Honolulu woman not over 35 years of age, if she be pretty, with some means of her own, and willing to be married, can be accommodated with a husband in Kansas—a man who, by his own statement, is a fairly prosperous citizen, formerly of Missouri, but who need only a wife to complete his earthly bliss. The only other requirements are that such a prospective wife

J. BRYANT KELLAR.

***** shall be a Protestant, her nationality being no object.

J. Bryant Kellar is the name of the would-be husband. He has made his wishes known to the "Mayor of Honolulu," and the discerning postmaster promptly placed the missive in the hands of Chairman George W. Smith of the Board of Supervisors, as approaching more nearly a mayor than any one else in the community. Mr. Kellar's letter is as follows:

Blue Mound, Kan., Oct. 8th, 1905.

Mayor of Honolulu,

Dear Sir: You will please pardon me for the liberty I take in asking the favor of which I am about to make and knowing that you are a very popular and influential gentleman and one that can be relied on, as I am a middle aged man of temperate habits and alone in the world will ask you to assist me in procuring a life mate—a wife—not finding any fault of our ladies here but have a great desire for a good kind lady from your city or country—one that would love and appreciate the kindness of a true loving husband. Now to tell you something of myself which is very necessary in a case of this kind, and should there be any doubt arise in reference to my statements will give refs from the best people of our country—

Ref. No. 1—J. R. Hance, a merchant, 1145 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

Ref. No. 2—Fred Hall, banker, Fulton, Kansas.

Can give a score if desired.

I have been engaged in the mdse business in St. Louis, Mo., but sold my business some time ago and am out in Kan visiting a sister and resting up for a while. Will take up my business again as soon as I am married. I would like a lady for a wife not over 35 years of age and pretty with equal means and willing to help her husband in business which may be if she desires all in her own name and right. I care not what nationality a lady may be if a Protestant and all of those writing me must give description and particulars in full in first letter and state amt of means and send photo. Curiosity seekers and pass time letters not recognized must mean business and to the point. Now if you are successful in getting me a life partner—soon as I am married you shall be well paid for your kindness and services and will make deposit in bank payable to you soon as I am married to the one of my choice. Now I want to ask a few questions. What is the population of Honolulu? Please send me a copy of a daily news paper of the largest circulation. After getting the full meaning of my letter will you kindly had it to the Governor or editor and possibly they can help me in this matter and you need not hesitate in recommending me for my statements will bare investigation, for I have no desire or object to practice any deceit and the fact one that wins me never will regret it. Inclosed you will find a proof not a regular photo but will give an idea of my appearance. Now in conclusion will say do all you can for me. I do not owe a cent and am ready to wed soon as I can find my ideal trusting to hear from you soon as convenient with best wishes I am very

MAY BOTH RECOVER.

Monta Asana, an attempt on whose life was made about noon yesterday, will probably recover. She is at the Japanese hospital on Liliha street and inquiry at 11:30 last night revealed the fact that she was, if anything, improving, although she has a bullet in her lung. Her assailant, K. Shiraishi, is also at the same hospital and is likewise expected to recover.
